

Rep. Wilson Ready to Return to Work

Conference call for Media with Wilson on Tuesday

Washington, D.C. - Congressman Charlie Wilson (OH-6) is ready to get back to work and will return to the House of Representatives on Tuesday, November 6, 2007. Wilson has been recovering following emergency colon surgery on October 11.

Wilson underwent a routine screening colonoscopy in Ohio and sustained a potentially life-threatening colonic perforation during the procedure. Following the major abdominal surgery in Washington that was required to correct the problem and to take care of the resulting infection, Wilson spent a week in the hospital, including five days in intensive care.

At the time of the surgery, Wilson's surgeon advised him that he would require an additional four weeks for recovery.

Wilson intends to return to a light Congressional schedule starting Tuesday - one week ahead of schedule. During the coming weeks, Wilson will vote on matters before the House of Representatives, but take a limited number of meetings.

"I'm healthy and I'm ready to get back to work for the people of Ohio," Wilson said.

At the beginning of his first day back, Wilson will host a media conference call. Details regarding the call are included below.
